Fulfilling the Texas Legislative Requirement for Government:

The Texas Education Code requires Texas public university and community college students to complete six hours of coursework in government/political science; study of the US and Texas constitutions and related subjects is specified as the required course content. It is strongly recommended that students complete both required courses at one institution to avoid problems in satisfying the legislative requirement.

However, students who choose to take the required courses at two different institutions should be aware of the acceptable combinations:

UT Austin:

(Often varies, check unique numbers for subtopics of interest.)

Austin Community College:

Texas Common Course Numbering System (used by most Texas Community Colleges):

Government 2301 = Government 310L
Government 2302 = Government 312L
Government 2305 = Government 3US
Government 2306 = Government 3TX

Students with AP credit for Government must take the UT Austin Test in Texas Government to complete the credit for Government 310L. Registration for the test is at http://ctl.utexas.edu/programs-and-services/student-testing-services/exam-details?examiD=155

Government 105, offered only through UT Distance Education Center, is for students who have six hours of US government but are lacking the Texas component. www.utexas.edu/cee/dec

Government 310L includes both the US and TX Constitutions, therefore Government 312L and Government 3TX is NOT an acceptable combination as it lacks the US Constitution.

U.S. History

Each student must complete six semester hours of coursework in American History. Up to three hours in Texas history may be counted towards this requirement. Because these courses are not electives, they may not be taken on a pass/fail basis. Credit by examination may be counted towards the requirement. History 315K and History 315L are introductory survey courses and the most commonly taken, but are not the only options. Check other course listed under the History Department as well as American Studies for more specific topics. History courses taken at a community college will be the equivalent of His 315K or His 315L.
